Saturday evening's Toledo Commercial appears in an enlarged form.

Ohio democrats are getting very much fatigued. They think Foraker has made too much of a racket.

General Butler will be 70 years old in 1888—old enough to know better than to do what he will be sure to do.

The "boom" towns are taking a long needed rest. And the reading public is taking a delightful rest also.

The union labor people at front have withdrawn their ticket, in behalf of Foraker. It was a sensible and practical thing to do.

The Urbana Daily Citizen doubts itself up on Saturday, on which days it is twice as good as on other days. That is praise enough.

The Presbyterian and Congregational theological seminaries at Chicago have just received $50,000 each, from Dr. D. N. Parsons and wife.

Foraker was first nominated in Columbus and defeated. He was then nominated in Springfield and elected. That is one reason why we are going to give him an ovation Wednesday.

The American Citizen, a new quarterly to be issued once a month at Boston, declares, with much force, that it is "not the birth-place but the actions that make an American citizen."

"Crazy Patch" is what the Toledo Blade calls the democratic state ticket.—Xenia Torchlight.

If it isn't crazy now it will be knocked crazy on Tuesday of next week.

This is a week for hard, earnest work by all republicans, everywhere. It is the last week of the campaign and the size of Foraker's majority will have its influence on the presidential campaign, next year.

Fred Mussey looks up as a great journalist. In his line of getting up an elaborate and picturesque account of current events, he has no equal in America or Europe. He writes only for the Cincinnati Commercial Gazette.

Mr. W. S. Cappeller, of the Mansfield Daily News was fully vindicated by facts and evidence long before the Mansfield Herald made its dirty attack upon him. The Herald people should know that such weapons as it has used always prove to be boomerangs.

The democrats charge Foraker with trying to pile up his own majority. We venture to confess judgment in his behalf. That is just what he is doing. They also charge Sherman with working for a republican legislature. That must be admitted, also.

The gale on the lakes, on Friday, wrecked one of the staunchest passenger propellers in connection—the Vernon—and her crew of twenty-two men and a large number of passengers went down with her. The steamer cost $55,000 and the Northern Michigan Steamship Company paid $1,000 a month for her use.

At an anti-saloon meeting held in Lockport, New York, one evening last week, the Rev. Dr. Hall, of Buffalo, said: "About one year ago, in Buffalo, I asked the Hon. J. B. Finch if he thought that the prohibitionists would be a majority party within fifty years, and he answered no." George T. Chester, the state committeeman of this district for the prohibition party, who was in the audience, called out: "I would like to ask when and where you say Mr. Finch said that?" The Rev. Dr. Hall replied: "It was, as I said, about a year ago." It was the last time he was in Buffalo." Mr. Chester, in an angry manner, replied: "Then I say on behalf of the prohibitionists who compose a portion of this audience, that what you say is absolutely false, and further, we do not believe that Mr. Finch ever said that." Albert Griffin, of Kansas, then jumped up and in an excited manner said: "I will add, in order to corroborate Mr. Hall's statement, that Mr. Finch has many times told me and many others the same thing." Mr. Finch also said, a short time before his death, that laws could be enforced only as they were sustained by local opinion. If Mr. Finch had lived a little longer it seems quite likely that he would have come to the correct conclusion that prohibition partisan effort is a failure. Logic and experience were evidently leading him to that point.

The coming of General Gordon to Ohio has brought Private Dabell to the front, who, in a speech at North Lima, Saturday, said:

General Gordon was not only a leader among the men who sought to destroy the government, but he has never been reformed or reeducated. Instead of accepting the results of the war in good faith he has busied himself in evading the legislation which grew out of the war and in defying the constitution and laws of the United States. His hands are not only stained with the blood of men who were engaged in defending the old flag, but they are red with the blood of innocent negroes, whose only crime was their devotion to the party which gave them the boon of liberty. He comes from the absurd and treasonable eulogy and glorification of a double-crossing traitor to teach loyal Buckeyes how to vote. His appearance in the Ohio canvass is a presumption, an impudence, an insult to every Ohio voter, and the proper way to resent it is to give J. B. Foraker 40,000 majority in November.

We do not assume to try to instruct those eminent local statesmen—Mr. Abell and Mr. Morris—democratic standard-bearers in Clark county, but as they are rather fresh in this locality, and we have been here a good while, we think we may enlighten them on one point—namely, as to the character of the democrats of Clark county. They are, in the main, very good and decent citizens—intelligent and virtuous, although they have gone wrong in partisan politics, and they are not the low, vile, dirty blackguards that Messrs. Abell and Morris evidently believe them to be, when they get on the stump and fire off their speeches at them. As a matter of fact we may state that the decent democrats of this city and county have had their stomachs turned by the peculiar style of oratory to which these distinguished modern Ciceros have treated them.

The new Madison Square garden building, at New York, will have a tower 300 feet high and will cost $1,500,000. It will have an ordinary seating capacity of 5,000 persons, and when used for political gatherings can be made to accommodate 12,000 persons.

Governor Foraker made a rousing speech at the armory in Columbus, Saturday night, and gave some timely and effective attention to that unrepentant rebel, General Gordon.

The killing of Mr. W. H. Reynolds, editor of the Times, at Ashland, Ohio, by James Mason, who had a libel suit against his victim, has created a great local excitement.

"Happy Bob" Van Brunt, who was a Salvation army man, who fell from grace and killed his sweetheart, at Warsaw, New York, is to be hanged on December 8th.

Engene Field and the Redoubts. Engene Field was here not long ago under an assignment to describe the Omaha saloon property of ex-President Hayes, and I had the pleasure of dining with him at one of our first class hotels. After dinner we went up to his room. When he opened the door for me to go in, I saw probably the most remarkable apartment it has ever been my lot to witness. The walls had been white, originally, I suppose, but as I glanced at them they seemed to have been transformed into a dirty yellow. The sheets of the bed were turned down, and they exhibited the same discoloration. The windows had spots of yellow on them, and the bedstead and dressing case were similarly blotched. I turned to Field wondering, he was looking very sober, even sad. "I had some trouble with the bugs last night," he explained pathetically, "and I didn't sleep very well. As soon as it was light I went down to the drug store and bought four packages of insect powder, and he had used it all, and with commendable thoroughness.

We sat in the yellow room and chatted a few minutes when Field rose and rang the bell. A girl appeared, and he asked her to send up the housekeeper. As that large, venerable and natronly person opened the door she saw Field in the center of the room assuming a tragical attitude, and rendered most fleshly ridiculous by the waving plumes of a large feather duster which he had found on the dressing case, and the handle of which he had stuck between his collar and the back of his neck. It was a tableau as funny as could be improvised. It was broken presently by Field announcing himself in blood curdling tones to the housekeeper as "Spot, the Bedding King." Then he chuckled her nastily by the sleeve, and led her over to the dressing case. He opened the top drawer of that article of furniture, and there, disposed in regular lines, were four or five bedsteads lying in all the silent paths of death on as many small fragments of newspaper. I shall never forget the expression of fear, astonishment and shame with which that housekeeper turned and ran out of the room.—Omaha World.

Englishmen Insulted at Waterloo. English visitors to the battlefield of Waterloo complain in the Belgian papers of the molestation and insults to which they have been exposed by so-called guides over the battlefield. The communal authorities of Waterloo and the neighboring localities will do well to look after the matter unless they wish to kill the goose which lays the golden eggs during the tourist season. In former years, twenty and thirty years ago, some of the guides had heard the cannon roar during the battle, although an intelligent questioner very soon found out that they had done so at a considerable distance from the field of battle, but the so-called guides of the present time are nothing else but a set of the most rapacious and rude ruffians.—Brussels Cor. London Times.

Have you a son or daughter, sister or brother who has not yet taken Keap's Balsam for the Throat and Lungs, the guaranteed remedy for the cure of Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Croup and all Throat and Lung troubles? If so, why? when a son or daughter is gladly given to you free by T. J. Capner, druggist, 41 East Main street, and the large size costs only 50c and 1.00.

WHAT IT MEANS!

The Significance of Your Vote on November 8.

WILL YOU ENDORSE FRAUD, FORGERY AND FREE TRADE?

A Few of the Questions to be Considered at This Time Briefly and Clearly Stated.

The time draws near for the voters of Ohio to decide who is to govern this state for the next two years. They are to decide whether our gallant governor, J. B. Foraker, under whose administration the state debt has been decreased, taxation lowered by the enactment of the Dow law, the drain on the taxpayers reduced by reducing the expenses of managing the public institutions and penitentiaries, the elective franchise protected by the enactment of laws guarding the purity of the ballot box, and blotting out crime and forgery, which were rampant in the state under Democratic rule—whether Governor Foraker's magnificent record is to be endorsed and he is to be re-elected, or whether this state is to be governed for the next two years by a man who, as chairman of the Democratic state committee in 1883, conducted the first campaign in Ohio in which fraud and forgery were adopted as election methods, by a man who has been connected with every infamy of his party in Ohio for the past five years; by the man who at Chicago in 1884 misrepresented the people of his state and prevented the nomination of an Ohio man instead of Grover Cleveland for president; the man who has been going up and down the state retailing the most infamous and slanderous misrepresentations of honest men and attempting to deceive the people of the state and delude farmers by his misrepresentations of Governor Foraker's message on the subject of state finances, and endeavoring to make political capital, by inventing false stories; the man who for twelve years did not pay his taxes justly due the state on his property, though he boasted that he made $15,000 a year in his law practice; the man who, when this was exposed by Governor Foraker, rushed down to the county treasurer's office and paid the twelve years' delinquent taxes and jumped on to a platform the same night and declared that the statement that he owed any taxes was false; the pettifogger and evader, to whose credit not one word has been printed even by his own party papers—the man, Thomas E. Powell, who heats the Democratic ticket.

The voters are to decide which of these is to be governor of the state for the next two years. But they are to decide much more than this. They are to decide whether the administration of Grover Cleveland, which has insulted Union soldiers, has attempted to revive the lost cause and its policy of promoting war heifers to positions in the public service, and been noted for everything that is most distasteful to the loyal and patriotic people of the state, is to be endorsed by Ohio's citizens. A vote for Powell is a vote to endorse this National administration. It is a vote in favor of the re-election of Grover Cleveland in 1888. It is more than this; it is a vote which will strike a blow at American industries and American labor, and in favor of free trade, under which the manufacturers of the land will be shut down and the workmen thrown out of employment, for it is a vote in opposition to the protective tariff, under which the workmen, the farmers, the manufacturers, the business men, the tradesmen and the agriculturists alike are benefited. A vote for Powell is a vote against protection to American industries, and is a vote against the interests of the laboring men of this country. It is a vote to encourage the British free traders and foreign paper labor. It is even more than this. It is a vote to endorse the infamous election crimes of 1885. It is a vote in favor of forgery as an election method. It is a vote in endorsement of the coal oil legislature which elected Henry B. Payne to the United States senatorship. It is a vote to return Cincinnati to the condition in which the Foraker administration found it, and who need to tell what that condition was? Every one remembers that Cincinnati was controlled by a gang of as disreputable characters as ever disgraced the face of the earth; that its public affairs were managed by men guilty of all sorts of offenses against honesty, and its elections controlled by a police so corrupted and criminal that an honest man was not safe on the streets after dark. From this evil Cincinnati has been rescued under the present state administration, but a vote for Mr. Powell is a vote to repeat all the wise and beneficent laws under which the city has been reformed and rescued from the cess pool of crime to which it would be returned by the success of Mr. Powell and the crowd associated with him. But it is even more. A vote for Mr. Powell and the Democratic state ticket is a vote against the honest, decent and business-like management of state affairs and in favor of extravagance and corruption in public service.

These are matters which should be carefully considered by all men, whatever their previous political affiliations have been. The time is past for men to vote the Democratic ticket simply because their fathers did, or because it has been their custom to vote that ticket in the past. The Democratic party has fallen into the hands of a gang with which no honest, intelligent man, be he Democrat or Republican, would wish to associate if he fully understood them and their intentions. A vote against Powell is a vote to rescue the Democratic party from the evil influences now ascendant in its management.
